DETAILED ALCOHOL SECURITY PLAN FOR CHILI'S GRILL & BAR, DEKALB, IL

Describe the method of storing and securing alcohol prior to sale:

We keep all hard liquors and wines in either a locked liquor cage or in the office. We have a display case in the dining room of some of our featured liquors that we keep locked up. All of our beer and kegs are stored in a beer cage in which we also keep locked. The only liquor or beer that isn't under lock and key is what is out in the bar to serve our guests.

Describe the method of securing site access, anti-theft policies and countermeasures:

The only people that have keys to our restaurant are managers and a few approved vendors that have a night delivery. Those vendors that do have a night delivery also have an alarm code specific to that vendor. As part of our closing check list, we make sure that the liquor cage and the beer cage are locked to help prevent theft.

Describe surveillance equipment to be utilized and a surveillance plan:

We currently do not have any surveillance equipment. Each month we go through and have a safety checklist that we do to make sure that our premises is as safe as we can make it. A copy of the checklist is attached on the next page.

Describe any other related security information:

We require all servers to get a manager to double check an ID of any person that is 25 and under, anything that isn't a valid driver's license, or an out of state ID. The chilli's back door has an alarm on it so that the only people coming in and out of the back door are people that we allow. Only the manager has the key to disable that alarm. We stop opening the back door an hour before close. After we are closed, no employee is allowed to leave without someone else accompanying them. Then at the end of the night when everyone is done, the last people here go to their car as the manager sets the alarm and waits there until the manager is safely to the car.
Over-serving, Intoxicated or disorderly patrons

If you believe that a Guest appears to be displaying signs of intoxication, notify your manager immediately. Employees need to get their manager involved if they feel a Guest has had or is about to have too much to drink. If it’s necessary to stop serving alcohol to a Guest, a manager will explain for the server or bartender.

A Guest who appears to be intoxicated approaches Jon and requests a drink. Jon informs his manager of the situation and they politely refuse to serve the Guest another drink, because they have a responsibility to ensure the Guest’s safety. Jon also could be held criminally and civilly liable as per state, county or municipal law.

Observe any visible signs of intoxication. For instance, a person’s normal inhibitions may become relaxed due to alcohol and they may say or do things they normally would not such as becoming overly friendly, depressed or quiet; make irrational or argumentative statements, reaction time may be slower and they may talk or move slower or lose eye contact.

Knowledge Check: spot the signs of an intoxicated guest with image of a disorderly guest as a correct answer.
Knowledge Check Feedback: By observing a Guest behavior, you can assess whether the Guest is exhibiting signs of intoxication.

In addition to legal concerns, serving a Guest that is, or appears to be intoxicated is not keeping the safety of our Guests a top priority.

BAC and Factors that Impact BAC

Good alcohol knowledge is essential. You must be aware of how much alcohol is in the drinks you serve and how alcohol works in the body. This will help you gauge if your Guest’s might be drinking too much.

To count drinks accurately, we use a Drink Count Chart to help you understand the true strength of our drinks. So how strong is that cocktail? Depending on how it’s made, it could contain as much alcohol as two glasses of wine. A “standard drink” is the amount of alcohol in a 12-ounce beer, 5 ounces of wine or 1.5 ounces of distilled spirits. It’s a useful way to track alcohol consumption. The multiple ingredients in mixed drinks make for a harder count as most people don’t realize how much alcohol is actually in a drink. The drink count chart takes into account the recipe for the drink and the proof of the alcohol within each ingredient.

Safety and security issues

- A visibly intoxicated Guest enters the restaurant. The host, Kate, should notify a manager and try to prevent that individual from driving.
- The Manager will call a friend of the Guest or a taxi to drive home a Guest that appears to be intoxicated. If that Guest refuses help or insists upon driving, the Manager will call the police.
- After all, liquor sales are a part of our business. However, even if someone gets drunk in a restaurant and Ubers home or gets a ride back home and later gets involved in an accident, we can still be held responsible. If a Guest gets to the point of intoxication in our restaurant, we have already failed to serve that Guest responsibly.
- A Guest who appears to be intoxicated approaches Jon and requests a drink. Jon informs his manager of the situation and they politely refuse to serve the Guest another drink, because they have a responsibility to ensure the Guest’s safety. Jon also could be held criminally and civilly liable as per state, county or municipal law.
- In addition to legal concerns, serving a Guest that is, or appears to be intoxicated is not keeping the safety of our Guests a top priority.
- Liquor Laws and Liabilities

Preventing consumption by minors

- eLearning Activity: Select hot spots to learn how to check that an ID is valid.
- An underage Guest may be trying to trick you into serving them alcohol. The most common means used by a minor to obtain alcohol is a borrowed ID.
- Requesting a Guest’s ID is a common practice for a server to determine who they can or can’t serve alcohol to. Jon is approached by two young adults. He thinks they might be minors and asks for a valid ID like a driver’s license, or state ID card. If Guests provide Jon with a birth certificate, school ID card, or voter registration card, he wouldn’t be able to properly check their ID. The IDs should be valid and issued by a government agency. If he isn’t sure about a form of ID he receives, he checks with his manager.

2. Alcohol Law and Responsibility

2.1 ALR liquor laws and criminal liability

Notes:

A Guest who appears to be intoxicated approaches Jon and requests a drink. Jon informs his manager of the situation and they politely refuse to serve the Guest another drink, because they have a responsibility to ensure the Guest’s safety. Jon also could be held criminally and civilly liable as per state, county or municipal law.

Select each tab to explore these laws and liabilities.

Criminal Liability
In most states, if you serve alcohol to a minor or to a Guest who is or appears to be intoxicated, you could be held criminally liable as per state, county or municipal laws.

Civil Liability
Dram Shop laws create a special type of civil liability that allows someone to sue the company and the Team Members for injuries caused by the Guest drinking there.

Liquor Authority Governance
In addition to legal concerns, serving a Guest that is, or appears to be intoxicated is not keeping the safety of our Guests a top priority.
In most states, if you serve alcohol to a minor or to a Guest who is or appears to be intoxicated, you could be held criminally liable as per state, country, or municipal laws.

Dram shop laws create a specific type of civil liability that allows a person injured by a Guest who was drinking in one of our restaurants, or sometimes even a Guest who was drinking in our restaurant who injured him or herself, to sue the Company and the Team Member who served the alcohol for damages arising from their injuries.
2.2 ALR_consequences_of_violations

Notes:

As the intoxicated Guest is attempting to persuade Jon, to serve him another drink, the Manager tries to pacify the situation by having a word with the Guest and politely refusing the Guest's request. Besides the responsibility for ensuring the Guest's safety, do you know why the manager is persistent in not serving another drink to an intoxicated person?

Indicates a BAC of .08 or higher

Notes:

A group of young adults, who are in their mid 20s, order a round of beers. A few of them after drinking one bottle of beer, requests another round. Jon agrees to their request and serves another round. Jon understands the concept of Blood Alcohol Content. What do you think Jon should have done? Let's understand what BAC is and why it is important to know the BAC chart.

The amount of alcohol absorbed in the bloodstream is called Blood Alcohol Content or BAC. In most states, it is illegal to drive with a BAC of 0.8 or higher. As a rule, your body can eliminate one drink per hour. Various factors impact a Guest's BAC.
4.3 Factors Affecting Bac

Notes:

Select the arrow to learn more about the factors that affect the BAC count.

- The liver can remove only about 1 drink per hour. If a Guest consumes more, it will result in a build up in the Guest’s bloodstream, raising his/her BAC.

- The more alcohol a drink contains, the more that will end up in the bloodstream and the higher the BAC. For instance a beer contains more alcohol than a mixed drink.

- All other factors being equal, typically smaller Guests have less blood to dilute the alcohol. A person with a large percentage of body fat will have a higher BAC than a leaner person.

- Drink for drink, normally women will have a higher BAC than men.

- Usually older Guests have a higher BAC than younger ones.

- Usually an upset Guest will have a higher BAC than a calm Guest because as they get drunk their judgment is impaired and inhibitions are lowering.

- Guests who consume alcohol while using illegal and even some legal drugs such as: cold tablets, and histamines and blood pressure medications can compound the effects of alcohol.

- A Guest who has not eaten has a higher BAC than the one who has. Food keeps the alcohol in the stomach longer and slows alcohol absorption.

- Carbonation can speed the rate in which alcohol passes through the stomach causing a higher BAC at a faster rate.

Jon is serving a mixed age group of two men and three women who place the same order for a margarita. Which factors should Jon use to analyze BAC level?

5. Serving Alcohol

5.1 Acceptable Forms of Identification

Notes:

Requesting a Guest's ID is a common practice for a server to determine who they can or can't serve alcohol to. Jon is approached by two young adults. He thinks they might be minors and asks for a valid ID like a driver's license, or state ID card. If Guests provide Jon with a birth certificate, school ID card, or voter registration card, he wouldn't be able to properly check their ID. The IDs should be valid and issued by a government agency. If he isn't sure about a form of ID he receives, he checks with his manager. Fortunately, the Guests provide Jon a Drivers license. He then takes a look to see if he can serve them.

To verify if an ID is authentic, click on the hotspots.

Age
The Guest is 21 or over.

Expiration Date
The ID has not expired. An expired ID can be used as a false ID to purchase alcohol.

Photo
Compare the Guest's photo to their face. Note that some people may change their hair color but their features should be very similar to the photo.

Valid ID
A Valid ID has proper text and images. Look for irregular fonts or text on the ID. Does the ID look like a valid state issued ID?

6. Conclusion

6.1 Conclusion

Notes:

You have completed all the four sections of Serving Safely!
Under most circumstances, we want to serve Guests of legal drinking age who order alcoholic beverages in our restaurants. After all, liquor sales are a part of our business. However, even if someone gets drunk in a restaurant and Ubers home or gets a ride back home and later gets involved in an accident, we can still be responsible. If a Guest gets to the point of intoxication in our restaurant, we have already failed to serve that Guest responsibly. Therefore, we always want to make sure that we are responsible sellers and servers of alcohol.
Have fun, be smart and serve responsibly!!
Unit Security Checklist

Date of last Checklist: 12/24/2019

Use of this checklist helps build awareness of security issues and procedures among managers and employees. The checklist is generic; it may include security equipment that does not apply to your restaurant. If you are unsure whether you have a particular security device, call your security monitoring company for a demonstration. During the first manager meeting of each month, review the checklist inspection, tests and security procedures. Target several procedures to emphasize with employees in shift meetings. Use this checklist to prepare security presentations for use in employee meetings.

1. Make sure Back Door Alarm is set.
2. Go over not opening the backdoor—only a Manager should do this.
3. Go over Employee wait for a Manager to enter to clear the building.

Remember... there are places you can go for help: Your Area Director, Alarm Company, the Crime Prevention Officer at your local police department, the Training and Crisis Team Members.
